issues. It deals with human beings. So let's try to do what is right. And with that, I'll give the rest of my time to Senator Byars.

SENATOR JANSSEN: Thank you, Senator Cudaback. Senator Byars, you have two minutes.

SENATOR BYARS: Thank you, Mr. President. Thank you, Senator Cudaback, for yielding your time. I want to take a couple of minutes to talk about money. Senator Tyson has brought this up. We've talked, I think, in terms of what other states are doing and what is Nebraska doing in relationship to their mental health spending. And Senator Jensen passed out a piece that I hope you all will take a moment to look at. And it deals with the states that are directly adjacent or closely adjacent to the state of Nebraska, and gives you the percent of spending those states are spending on inpatient services and those that are spending on community services. And I think it accentuates the point that I was attempting to make in my last testimony of the jeopardy that we place ourselves in from a legal standpoint of...

SENATOR JANSSEN: One minute.

SENATOR BYARS: ...not doing anything. Colorado, Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, Nebraska. Colorado, 29.6 percent on inpatient services; Iowa, 22.4; Kansas, 35.5; Minnesota, 29.9; Nebraska, 63.4. Now are they all out of step, or are we? I think it's extremely important that we understand this. We need to build community-based services. We're putting into effect a plan. It's a good plan. It's a plan that we will be responsible for. It's a plan that has accountability. It's a plan that looks at the people of this state, the entire state, that need services. I ask you to approve this section of FA1573.

SENATOR JANSSEN: Thank you, Senator Byars. Senator Combs.

SENATOR COMBS: Thank you, Mr. President and members of the body. And I, too, I guess I want to pile on and thank Senator Jensen and Senator Byars and all the committee indeed for their hard work on mental health reform, because it is needed. We do
